IOM Vision

IOM, in partnership with strategic actors, seeks to strengthen institutional and community capacities on preparedness and response to emergency or crisis situations, to reduce the risks and vulnerabilities of affected populations (internally displaced persons - IDPs -, former combatants, migrants, and host communities) and support sustainable recovery, community stabilization and peacebuilding at national, regional and local levels. The humanitarian and recovery responses and peacebuilding strategies are included in the IOM Colombia Strategy (2015-2020) signed with the government (Objective 2: Contribute in emergencies' and disasters' situations response and risk management, and Objective 3: Facilitate peacebuilding).

Context Analysis

Experiencing over 50 years of armed conflict, Colombia is impacted with over 5.8 million internal displaced people^[1], large numbers of victims of abuse and violence particularly GBV that are in need of reparation and reintegration support, fragile communities with scarcity of income-generating opportunities and reduced livelihood, high poverty and lack of basic social services, and high risk of human trafficking and recruitment of children by the residual armed groups and criminal gangs. Ethnic groups (indigenous and Afro-Colombian) continue to suffer threats, forced recruitment, intimidation, and homicides. These communities are still affected by the continued impact of the conflict and criminal gangs generating acute humanitarian needs.

Indigenous populations are living in areas with low presence of government institutions and poor or lack of basic services that maintain their vulnerability. With the spread of COVID-19, these populations have increased vulnerability and face also the risks resulted from climate change related hazards, and constant actions by the remaining armed groups.

After the signature of the Peace Agreement between the Government of Colombia (GoC) and the FARC-EP, various activities have been and continue to be implemented for reintegration of former combatants, capacity building actions, reparation of victims and peacebuilding actions. Yet, there are still a lot of needs to be addressed.

The effects of the long period of conflict, the COVID-19 pandemic and climate change have increased unemployment in the country and seriously impacted the livelihoods of the IDPs, migrants, and host communities, especially of ethnic groups.

IOM Capacity

The IOM Mission in Colombia has been supporting GoC efforts during the past 20 years in several areas that include preparedness and emergency response, recovery, community stabilization and peacebuilding.

In terms of emergency preparedness, IOM supports the Government institutions with the development of guidelines and procedures as well as capacity strengthening activities in the areas of shelter management, protection, and prevention of risks of human trafficking, among others.

IOM also provides humanitarian assistance to internally displaced populations affected by armed conflict or natural disasters, as well as affected populations by floods, and droughts. Humanitarian assistance in the country includes: provision of transport assistance, shelter, food/nutrition, non- food items, and mental health and psychosocial support. IOM also supports civil society organizations to build their capacities for the transition to peace at national and local levels.

Related to DDR, IOM has assisted the GoC on their response to the processes of reintegration through the strengthening of institutional capacities to implement processes of Disarmament, Demobilization and Reintegration and on the strategies for prevention of recruitment by organized groups.
