IOM Weekly Programming

IOM conducted a three-day Flood Preparedness and Response Training for 19 national first responders from flood-prone areas in Eastern Libya. Participants represented key agencies, including the National Safety Authority/Civil Defence (Lead Agency), General Administration of Coastguard Services, Scouts and Girl Guides Movement, Libyan Red Crescent, and LibAid. The training covered topics such as disaster risk overview, hydrology and weather, the disaster management cycle, flood response and technical rescue, and strategies for community engagement and awareness campaigns. Through this training, participants gained a strategic understanding of flood risk and incident management, familiarized themselves with rescue procedures specific to flood emergencies, and learned essential community safety interventions.

IOM organized three job fairs in Tripoli and Sabha offering a platform to unemployed skilled youth to interact with potential employers. The event offered a unique opportunity for over 220 YESS graduates to network with potential employers and explore job placements and internship opportunities. 30 companies from diverse sectors attended the job fair.
